Here is kept the original draft of the Declaration of Independence, and there has been added within the past few years the identical desk upon which Jefferson wrote it. Jefferson's which senerson wrote it. Senerson selesk is a small mahogany box-like writing-desk, about eighteen inches wide, two feet long, and three inches thick. One might easily take it on his ap to use it, but it was probably laid apon the table while the Declaration was penned upon it. It has a series of small compartments, on one side for ens and writing material, and when pened its top is covered with green aize. Pasted upon one of its inner leaves is a note in Jeffeison's own handwriting, dated in Monticello, in which e says the desk was made by a Philache on which he wrote the Declaration.

This note closes with the following senday.

All trains between Columbus and Cincin-All trains between without change of cars, its superstitions; these, gaining strength with time, may one day give imaginary value to this relic for its associations with the birth of the great charter of our independence."

In the same case containing this desk, on the shelf above it, lie the staff of Sonjamin Franklin and the swords of ashington and Jackson. Benjamin Franklin's cane is a thick, gold-headed RAILWAY, ick, of knotted crab tree. It is ainted black, highly polished, and on its end it has a brass ferule. Its head is designed, as says Jefferson's will, in the form of a cap of liberty, and its gold is very yellow and shows but little.

AND THE old is very yellow and shows but little alloy. This cane supported Franklin during all state occasions, and when he died he willed it to Washington, saying, if it were a scepter, General Washington has merited it, and would become it." Washington willed it to his aphew, Charles Washington, and the grandson of Charles Washington gave it to the United States.

Another curiosity in this room is an mense shell or torpedo from six to ot long, which Elihu Washburne, our dinister at Paris, picked up during the embardment of Paris and sent to the ate Department as a relic. It is a coarderous-looking shell, and its deription says that it was thrown into ecity during the siege. Just below is, in a box about two feet with the state of the ght inches in diameter, and over a tree feet long, is a plaster east of one the first treaties on record. NOTICE TO HEIRS.

The State of Ohio, Hocking County, ss. In Probate Court.

In the matter of the last Will and Testament of John Sater, Sr., dec'd: KeepQuiet a Few Days.

This is what the good doctor and kind friends say time and again to those whose nerves are all unstrung worn out with labor and care, sleep less nights, poor appetites, unable to digest the little they do eat, and general miserableness all over, There is ne boubt about the advice be-ng good, but how many of the suffering housands can follow it? Not one in twening the advice to KEEP QUIET A FEW DAYS. What then are you to do? To go on seems certain death And drop all cares one cannot; the road looks dark, but 'tis before day. Will and dark, but 'tis before day. Will and determinttion have much to do with our existence. Never give up. Study to find where you have gone againt Nature the hardest, and abandon all things possible that do you harm. Yet you will find it necessary at times to depend on a good reliable medicine to bely you out. Hops are a good nervine and tonic; Podopholin a cathartic and liver regulator; Buchu acts on the kidneys and urinay organs.

These, properly combined with other ingredients, have proved the greatest medicine ever prepared, and known throughout the world as Hop Bitters.
